MIT's The Engine raises $200M to fund 'tough tech'

Posted Sep 18, 2017 by Ingrid Lunden \(@ingridlunden\)

If you think that too many VCs these days are playing it safe and only looking to back sure bets rather than moonshots and more ambitious ventures, take a look over at what's going on in Boston. The Engine, based out of MIT and Cambridge, has raised a $200 million fund to back and help incubate startups working on "tough tech" — new challenges in areas like aerospace, advanced materials, biotech, genetic engineering and renewable energy.

Domino's and Starship Technologies will deliver pizza by robot in Europe this summer

Posted Mar 29, 2017 by Lora Kolodny \(@lorakolodny\)

We've said it once, we'll say it again— the food delivery robots are coming! This time, they'll be carting piping hot pizzas to Domino's customers.

The tech-loving pizza company joked about driverless delivery robots in 2015. Remember its
